

Review for photoshoot “The Spring Mood”

Who hasn't dreamed of running into Jeny in the street and taking a few steps in the city with her? Today the weather is very nice, it's windy but not too windy and Jeny is in a mood that is as happy as it is naughty. Always elegant, she wears white stockings and a short, white skirt with ruffles as well as a pair of black thigh-high boots with high heels. She randomly walks around the city while taking sometimes very naughty selfies. The wind easily reveals her beautiful legs and we discover her stockings and even more, very often and without difficulty. Jeny knows that a few walkers are watching her and following her with their eyes, so like a dancer might, she turns and twirls with grace and lightness. This has the effect of making the ruffles of her skirt go up and therefore make the luckiest discover her incredibly shapely buttocks. Her smile and joie de vivre accompany her from small alleys to shopping streets. She will even use her selfie stick to raise her skirt even more, but always without seeming to, without doing it on purpose. And since she doesn't have any panties, I let you imagine the surprise when you see this wonderful landing strip. And when she climbs the stairs to reach a small square, if you are lucky enough to be behind her, there at the right time, what you will discover will remain forever engraved in your memory.
