I've only got a few days' vacation left and I've decided to go hiking in the mountains, but the locals are advising me not to go off on my own. I like adventure and I don't want to listen to them. I'm going to think about it.

Yesterday evening, in the bar of my hotel, a young woman came up to me. She asked me if I was the person who was planning to go hiking in the mountains. We had a drink together. As the conversation progressed, she suggested that I accompany her and her husband tomorrow, and that she would act as my guide to the surrounding area. Her husband will take photos and videos of the hike, she tells me. It's for her 'You Tube' channel.

The three of us meet up outside the hotel and I get to know Alex, her husband. The atmosphere was immediately very pleasant. We leave the village by the road before heading into the forest on a signposted path. In addition to his rucksack, Alex is carrying a camera on his shoulder. I've got a small rucksack and Jeny has just a little pocket hanging from her belt down her back, hiding her buttocks. We get to know each other as we walk. Sometimes Alex leaves the path to take photos of the landscape or his wife.

After more than an hour's walk, we emerged from the forest to find ourselves in the open at the foot of a number of mountains. The view is magnificent. We take a break. Alex stepped away to take a video and it was at this point, in full sunlight, that I noticed that Jeny's leggings were very see-through. Noticing my dismay, she laughs and tells me it's not leggings but seamless tights.

I'm experiencing the rest of the ride in a different way now. I don't know whether I'd rather be looking at the landscape or Jeny's butt. Her little pouch is on the front, so her ass is visible and I can follow my 'guide' as closely as possible.

Sandwich break. Jeny tells me she's a bit of an exhibitionist and Alex tells me about their erotic website. I still can't decide whether I'm embarrassed or excited by her revelations. And to illustrate their point, Jeny poses for her husband's camera in front of me, the lucky spectator.

The rest of the hike promises to be more and more interesting.
